WAR GAMES RESUMED

Electric Shaver Ties Up Maneuvers as Bombers Wipe Out "Carrier."

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6.—(P)—A radiocasting razor that hampered communications silenced on orders from higher up, the United States army's general headquarters air force went back to playing at war over Florida today.

Brigadier General H. H. Arnold, commanding the bombardment wing at Vero Beach, traced static to an electric rezor one of his pilots, off duty, was using and ordered his men to shave in more old-fashioned ways for the time being.

A flight of bombers from the Zero Beach base "wiped out" an imaginary aircraft carrier at Key West this morning, successfully eluding pursuit planes from the Miami wing that gave chase as they roared home.

Later three big bombers fiew out to sea to rain theoretical bombs on an "enemy" ship.

Not so fortunate were attack ships basing at Fort Pierce, which ran into the Miami pursuit ships as they headed for an "airdrome" on Key Largo, south of Miami, and were technically annihilated in combat over Hollywood. Brigadier General H. H. Arnold,

Later, however, the attack ships took to the air again to fly over Or-lando and "destroy" an undefended "airdrome" there. Miami still awaited an expected nocturnal visit of the bombers, which was expected to provide the most spectacular show yet staged in the maneuvers.

A mix-up over blankets, Colonel H. H. Drake, quartermaster, revealed oday, had men participating in the maneuvers shivering during the week's several chilly nights.

RAZOR STATIC QUIETED; Text of Talmadge's Speech Flaying Roosevelt, New Deal

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The address of Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, over a nation-wide hookup of the National Broadcasting Company here today, follows in full.

Iy Fellow Countrymen:

My Fellow Countrymen:

I wish to thank the National Broadcasting Company for their courtesy in extending me this time to address the people of America.

On November 29, 1933, the President of the United States delivered au address in Atlanta, Ga. His address was clearly announcing his candidacy for re-election as President of the United States.

the United States.
Of course, President Roosevelt wishes to be renominated and reelected President of the United States inder the banner of the democratic The last national convention of the democratic party was held in Chicago in 1932. At that time, a great platrm was written. Roosevelt was the nominee on this and his campaign piedges, he will be overwhelmingly defeated.

I did not attend the meeting when the President spoke in Atlanta on November 29.

I did not, by word, nor smile, nor deed, wish to appear hypocritical. I did not wish anyone in America to think that I condoned in any manner the policies of the present administration.

Did Not Want to Bow.

I did not want to go there and kotow, and bow and smile to the President, or any of the emissaries from Washington, for the sake of helping loot the national treasury and bring money to my home state of

The great crisis in America today is due to the fact that a large number of our officials are willing to saddle anything on the federal government, and come back home and tell the peo ple what they got for them. They never stop for a moment to think that the money which is being re-turned to the states was raised from the people within the states, and the orts in securing large sums of money for their states, the more certain the necessity for raising additional taxes on their own people to supply the

The President's speech, taken as a whole, was lauding the administration of the past three years. He stated that he was proud to see signs of revival, of a material prosperity in country and city, and especially because he sensed a swelling prosecause he sensed a swelling pros perity of the spirit that spells a greater help and a greater happiness for our fellow men.

At the time I heard these word over the radio, I was out on a south Georgia farm, in Telfair county. I saw white men and boys dig ging stumps—white men and boys plowing. I saw them plowing, and digging stumps, at smaller wager than they were paid at any time prior to the World War. I talked with different ones who lived in the country about how they ere getting along Most of them told me that the had quit buying meat, as it cost them about 22 cents per pound for the cheapest grade.

Most of their homes had the same old furniture and the same old bed-clothing of years ago. "Unable to Buy Bacon."

I did not have the heart to ask them why they were not living bet-ter. I knew that this great yeomanry of people was not on the pay roll of the federal government. These people—men, women and children—are the ones who are out on the "firing line" making our food and clothing, and paying taxes for officials to make great speeches should be a supply the state of the control of t cials to make great speeches about prosperity an progress.

These people, whom I was with on November 29, were not able to buy breakfast bacon imported from Canada. But, somehow they knew that it was being imported from Canada—and that their tax dollars were being paid to American farmers to curtail the production of hogs right These same people were not able buy extra overalls and bedclothing at the advanced prices, but they knew that cotton goods were pouring into this country by the billions of dollars, and at the same time they were cut down to around two bales

Two bales of cotton to the plow at the present price is about $115 or $120 to a family of five—the money crop for 12 months.

The President referred to his first coming to Georgia 11 years ago -in 1924. He stated that the American people would not want to go back to the times of 1924.

Every farmer down in Meri-wether county, Georgia, would swap the present time of 1935 for the times

In 1924, cotton brought 24 cent per pound, and we made 13,628,000 bales in the United States.

In 1924, relief and the dole were unheard of in Meriwether county, and that county took care of its aged nd infirm paupers.

In 1924, wages and farm labor in Meriwether county was twice what it is today. Not only wages and farm labor, but wages to store clerks, fees paid to doctors and lawyers, and even school teachers' salaries were higher than they are today—and not a dime was received from the federal government to help run the schools of Meriwether county, or the entire state of Georgia. Began After 1924.

But, our depression began slight-ly after 1924. It started with the federal government competing with

The President spoke of these years as the "fool's paradise." Yet, in 1924, the people of Meriwether county, and Georgia as a whole, felt that they had to work for a living, work out their own salvation, and not look to a dole or relief to help them.

From 1929 to 1933, the depression set in-not only in Georgia, but all over the United States. Because transportation rates were at the wartime peak, and above the wartime peak, when the price of all other commodities and labor had gone This stifled distribution, caused thousands of acres of reaches, watermelons, cantaloupes, beans and other food crops to rot in the fields of Georgia, and other sections of the United States, and at the same time a great majority of the people in the cities were wanting for these same products. In other words, the advance freight rates on peaches from Warm Springs, Ga., to New York, rose from less than $200 per car before the war to $400 per car in 1929.

These exorbitant freight rates These exorbitant treight faces stifled distribution, preventing the farmers from realizing on their crops, and at the same time the railroads were "killing the goose that laid the golden egg.'

Georgia has made efforts to correct the transportation costs within her borders, and has been met by the administration at Washington forcing back increased rates, when the Public Service Commission of Georgia had decreased them. I deny that the mechanics of civilization came to a dead stop about March 3, 1933.

Much Said About Banks. Much has been said about the banks of America all being closed, but nothing has ever been said as to why they were closed.

The banks were first closed in the state of Michigan. The banks of sur-rounding states thought that they had to close to protect their deposits from withdrawals.

from withdrawals.

Then, an executive order was issued, closing all of the banks after the inauguration on March 4. At that time, I thought it was very foolish and useless.
Why did I think so?

Why did I think so?

Because 79 per cent of the banks reopened, and are open today—and 10 per cent of the remaining consolidated with other banks. If a bank can reopen, it should not be closed.

In the inaugural address of March 4, 1933, I well remember the President's utterances that the money changers of this country had to be delicer from the temple. changers of this country driven from the temple.

Yet, in Atlanta, Ga., on November 29, 1935, the President stated that he told the bankers the country would have to go heavily into debt to save the banks, the insurance companies, the railroads and the mortgage companies.

We are all familiar with the bilthat have been loaned to railroads, mortgage companies and insurance companies. The American public is also fa-miliar with the fact that govern-ment money was furnished to cer-tain banks to loan on farm commodities at a cheaper rate of interest than the farmer has to pay, and the banks guaranteed against loss. Such action as this by the fedtice to its citizens, and is helping those who least need help. "At Variance With Bankers." The President and the bankers of America are at variance as to how much they stated the United States vernment could go into debt.

The President stated that bankers said the government could easily go into debt fifty-five to sev-enty billion dollars to help them. Some of the responsible bankers of America deny it, and challenge the President to name the bankers who made the statement.

So far, we have not heard the names of the bankers who were trying to borrow any such amounts.

However, it is not at all surpris however, it is not at all surprising that a great number of "wouldbe" millionaires, parading under the name of bankers, saw the great opportunity of running to Washington and borrowing millions of the taxpayers' dollars, with any kind of nine dream they know as some buse pipe dream they knew no one but a professor or brain-truster would

The President also states hat the refederal government came to the rescue of the home owners and farm owners over the nation who were losing the roofs over their heads through inflated valuations and exorbitant rates of interest.

The answer to that statement is following: The Federal Land Bank and other agencies of the fed-eral government have, for the past two and one-half years, foreclosed The President further said, in his address in Atlanta: "Why, speaking in broad terms in following up this particular illustration, are we living on a third-class diet? The present laws governing the la-bor of children in mills and factories, bor of children in mills and factories, every one of them, were passed prior to March 4, 1933, and are state laws. It is true that congress passed a constitutional amendment providing that we have a bureau in Washington to regulate the labor of our children. But mark these words: It does not say whether they were hired out or not, but their labor, whether they were at home bringing in wood, drawing water, feeding the pigs, or working out for wages!

In other words, this constitutional amendment that the brain-trusters wished to force on America would have had a bureau in Washington, telling a parent when he could tell his children to sweep the floor, or carry out the ashes, or wash the clother

Why, they even went so far as to send some women down to Atlanta the last session of our legislature, who never had a baby of her own, to tell our lawmakers that they should vote for a bureau in Washington to manage the children of this nation—

I will tell you a way to spend two and one-half billion dollars of it, and at the same time retire a debt. Congress is going to vote to pay the soldiers' bonus in January. 1936, and if it is vetoed, they are going to pass it over the President's veto.

urges Bonus Payment.

The wise step for congress to take is to pay up a debt by paying the bonus, and stop all of this boondoggling by paying the bonus over the President's veto out of that $4,880,000,000 security appropriation.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt is not a democrat.

If he secures the nomination by a convention parading in the name of the democratic party, it will be the last of those great principles enunciated by that great patriot, Thomas Jefferson, who said: "The least governed."

We must get back to the principles of Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Jackson.

Washington, in his farewell address, said: "The day will come, when, under the cloak and with the excuse of emergency, that lusters would attempt to seize power and change our form of government. Rise and smite them when attempted."

And, Thomas Jefferson, in a letter to Gideon Cramer, August 13, 1800, said: "This man is known throughout the fisherman and the democratic party in Chicago in 1932.

Government for Improving Policies Outlined.

A three-point suggestion to the federal government for improving housing conditions in America was outlined yesterday in a resolution adopted by realtors assembled for a regional meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. "Sound, long-range policies" were cited as a means of preventing the "obnoxious expedient of the government becoming a landlord to its citizens."

Realtors urged that the government "use its great power and influence to develop and to recommend to the to develop and to recommend to the various states a tax system which relieves the crushing burdens on shelter imposed by the obsolete general property tax." They suggested "an agency assuring the marketability of the mortgage, so that by means of increased attractiveness and protection of the long term credit structure mortgage interest rates will be decreased."

further, they urged a program be instituted which would reduce building costs. In other resolutions they said they reaffirmed their beliefs that a federal commission should be ap-pointed to study taxation, and that the annual income of real estate should be the basis of tax valua-

Institute Says No Useful Purpose Would Be Served by Attendance.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 .- (AP)-The Cotton-Textile Institute announced unequivocally tonight that it would not participate in the industrial conference called for next Monday by Major George L. Berry, federal co-ordinator of industrial recovery, for the purpose of considering new fed-eral legislation dealing with industrial regulation.

Its refusal was communicated to Major Berry by Dr. Claudius T. Murchison, president of the institute, who stated that "no useful purpose would be served by its attendance at the conference."

Dr. Murchison said the institute was committed to the belief in indus-

The Chinese ambassador to London, Quo Tai-chi, called the crisis to the notice of the British government early this, week, pointing out Britain's obligations under the nine-power pact.

The British government was understood to be awaiting clarification of the situation or some assurances from Japan before taking the next step.

Some quarters said there was a possibility of joint or simultaneous steps by signatories of the nine-power treaty whose diplomatic representatives were said to be keeping closely informed of the North China situation.

(The signatories of the pact were the United States, Japan, China, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Portugal and the Netherlands.)

Diplomats expressed the opinion the present North China crisis may seriously affect the international naval conference scheduled to open here December 9. Higher Than New York.

Rain, driving steadily in from the southwest, is scheduled to reach Atlanta this afternoon and for the next two days weather conditions in the city will be uncertain, according to the forecast late yesterday from the Atlanta Weather Bureau.

Temperatures are due to moderate slightly, says George W. Mindling, chief forecaster, with the mercury barely reaching 32 degrees this morning. This afternoon, the rain will hold the temperatures to a level of about 46 degrees, he adds. Yesterday 58 degrees was the high mark for the day after a low mark of 25 degrees during the morning.

THE FORD AND LINCOLN TWELVE-CYLINDER VALUE AT MEDIUM PRICE

BORN in the Lincoln tradition, bearing the Lincoln name, the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR brings to the medium-price field traditional Ford-Lincoln standards of value. Built in its own specially equipped division of the Lincoln plant, famous for precision workmanship, this new car reflects the combined Ford-Lincoln engineering experience, manufacturing ability and economic resources.

Powered with a 110-horsepower 12-cylinder engine of the V-type, the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR provides performance of a high order, combined with unusual economy. The wide, roomy body, on a wheelbase of 122 inches with springbase of 133 inches, has ample room for six passengers and luggage. The spare wheel is carried concealed under the rear deck.

At first glimpse the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR will give you a new concept of beauty. Here a motor car's form is determined logically by a motor car's function. Streamlines flow, uninterrupted, from bow to stern, from side to side; and every line satisfies the eye.

But the beauty of the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR carries a significance larger than any style trend. It reflects new principles of design. Just as trusses of steel make possible the bridge, light in weight but great in strength, steel trusses underlie the curves of this new car. Body and frame are one, welded together.

The great safety provided by this modern construction is enhanced by ease of handling and control. On all types of roads, under all conditions of travel, the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR conveys the feeling of safety because of its low center of gravity and correct distribution of weight.

PRICED FROM F. O. B. DETROIT AVAILABLE IN TWO SEDAN BODY TYPES venient, economical terms through the Authorised Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company

Inherent in the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR, too, is a new rhythm of motoring. Many persons have remarked that the back seat is as comfortable as the front, and that the car rides as gently with one passenger as with six. Soft transverse springs minimize jounces, jolts, bumps - "up-and-down" motions that tire the motorist. With its alert and responsive V-12 cylinder motor, this car glides over all kinds of road surfaces without transmitting their shocks to driver or passengers.

For all its forward-reaching design, the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR contains nothing experimental. It has been tested more rigorously by Lincoln engineers than it could be by owners. Working parts are easy of access. Basic design and details of construction make the car economical to use,

That is not as difficult as it sounds. For instance, the northwest mounted statesman, Secretary Hull, already has managed to get around and forget a certain treaty signed by the United States and Italy February 26, 1871, and still in legal effect. After all Mr. Hull has said about the sanctity of treaties, it appears not to have been even disconcerting for him, when his lawyers pointed and the profligacy of squadrons are scattering in the mountain passes with the mountain passes with the mountain passes with the mountain passes with the mountain passes are cattering in the mountain passes with the mountain passes are cattering in the mountain passes

Legalites, now writing the new neutrality legislation, have been looking for a better legal excuse than that one. They have to find one to make any neutrality legislation really effective.

The New Dealers seemed to be more steamed up about the rectitude of their position on the embargo issue than on any other lately. A few days ago, an authority near the top flatly said the with airplanes leaving steamers in midocean and flying mails and passengers the balance of the way.

Voluntary appeals will be made first, indirect pressure next, but, if everything fails, the President (he said) would slap oil into the embargo list as a war material, law or no law.

This may be inspired talk for effect, but it is by no means impossible. OGRABME Some authorities have been looking into the history of American embargoes. They say the only one ever imposed was in Thomas Jefferson's administration and that it contributed to bringing on the War of 1812. Smart politicos tried to popularize the issue in the ensuing political campaign, spelling embargo backwards, calling it an "ograbme" policy.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS FAIR ENOUGH BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

THIN ICE WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The fancy way the New Dealers have been skating around on one foot across this embargo ice would indicate there is something wrong with the ice. There is,

Official legal advisers of the government will confess quite frankly ander their unofficial heraths that an embargo against oil, copper, steel in England in the spring of 1916,

Within a year a great English patriot, who died crazy by deliberate misinterpretation of the word, wrote "Kadaver" in a captured German military document, offered the English people the idea-which they were by then only too eager to believe—that barbarian Germans, in their dire necessity, were now boiling their own dead to obtain grease for their motor transport. "Kadaver" in this case referred to dead horses.

Germany in the past to import some German royal blood, that their own scientists and intellectuals had found much to admire in Germany and that much to admire in Germany and that many an old personal friend of for-gotten days before August, 1914, was now fighting on the other side. It only made them wilder to remind them of these things.

They were doing without food, Mr. Hull has been able to get a conscience-easing opinion from his fights, train services, private automo biles, and an English merchant who offered for sale an article from his pre-war stock bearing the loathsome inscription "Made in Germany" would have been tossed into jail as a traitor to the brave boys who were dying in the mud along the Somme.

The League of Nations, in meeting at Geneva a few weeks ago, voted to impose a boycott on Italy for her plain violation of the League covenant in moving into Ethiopia with an army. There's no doubt about the violation but there's no doubt, either, that the Italian expedition is a worse threat to Great Britain than to the Ethiopians, who have only their independence to lose but many modern con-veniences to gain, including shirts, trousers, gold teeth, salvarsan treatments, jitney buses, movies, plumbing,

The Italians had a contract with the Germans to fight on their side, but made a secret agreement on the side to help the British and French instead, in return for which help they were to get theirs. Just pals, you see. And then the British and French see. And then the British and French gave them a royal trimming in the distribution of loot. Again you see

Italy lost more than 600,000 men who thought they were fighting for king and country, and in the end got a few rotten islands and some other odds and ends, but none of the col-

My Dear Louise: Modern girls know so much that a solemn parent makes himself a ittle ridiculous when he warns them against the world's wickedness. But that book you are reading reminds me that there are other daners which the smartest youngsters often fail to see. It is a good book except for the dirt, and the dirt adds nothing to the story except dirt. It is dragged in to shock people, and the result is not so much an offense against Heaven as an offense against decent taste.

That is the danger commonly overlooked. In India there are millions of devout people who consider it a mortal sin to eat beef. The act shocks and disgusts them as our race is shocked by the meanest of crimes.

Beef-eating wouldn't seem wicked to us, even if people did it in church, but what would you think of a woman who unwrapped a joint of raw beef during the Easter morning service and began to gnaw upon it while other worshipers bowed in prayer?

It wouldn't be immoral, but would its innocence of immorality make it any less offensive to good taste? Yesterday a lady told me that she had seen a number of high school boys keep their seats on an interurban car during a 30-minute run while an old lady carrying several packages clung to a strap. That wasn't wicked, either, but crime itself couldn't make witnesses

I will concede, if you wish, that it isn't a mortal sin for a girl to take a drink. But when she takes the one that makes her slightly drunk, whether the first or the fifth, and becomes reckless and loud-mouthed and maudlin, she makes a bawdy-house spectacle of herself and disgusts everybody who has any conception of good taste.

Believe me, my dear, good taste is the last safeguard of our civilization. When that is gone, we are back to dirt. So long as people know good taste and for decent pride's sake avoid the things that "simply aren't done," they will remain morally respectable. But when their taste becomes vulgar, and trashy things no longer shame and disgust them, their taste in morals will soon fall equally low.

Those who chum with thieves soon reach the point where they see no

"In spite of all these benefits," Mr. Camp pointed out, "there still faintly cries out a lone note of disastisfaction. Apparently no Georgian has prospered so materially under the Roosevelt administration as this one who sounds this note of dissatisfaction. Would be return to the time three years ago, when he could not pay for expensive trips into republican territory, and make long speeches over national radio hookups? Would he return to the period, three years ago, when he could not go to his farms in Georgia and see abounding signs of progress and prosperity as he sees there today? Would he return to that period in his official life when he deemed it essential to the welfare of the farmers of Georgia that legis lation be passed making any farmer a criminal who grew a stalk of cotton?"

Protested by Judge
Protest that too strict application of legal technicalities sometimes "reduces the rule to absurdity and brings ridicule on the court" was recorded by Justice John B. Guerry in the state court of appeals yesterday.

He made the statement in special concurrence to a reversal of a lower court because of a one-letter difference between indictment and proof of identity of a stolen car.

The case involved conviction of Bob Wright Jr., in Whitfield county, on a charge of automobile theft.

The car was identified in the indictment by the motor number, ictiment by the motor number, "P E 5369." Proof in the case showed the motor number to be "P C 5369."

Judge Guerry, in a special concurrence, stated he was governed by prior decisions of the supreme court.

"It is true," he wrote, "that the material allegata and probata must conform, but it should not be applied in a case where the difference is only the same between tweedledum and tweedledee."

One More Day

MIAMI. Fla., Dec. 6.—(UP) If Vanderbilt University doesn't accept the Orange Bowl invita-tion by tomorrow Auburn will be asked to come to Miami in their place.

W. Kleth Phillips, chairman of the Orange Bowl committee, to-night told the United Press he was going to give "Vanderbilt one more day in which to answer yes or no."

It was a cold rainy day in the fall of 1930.

In a ring at Ponce de Leon baseball park, Arthur de Kuh and W. L. Stribling slipped about the sodden canvas with a steady Glynn Academy halted a determined lot of diminutive Albany Indians, 19-14, here today to walk off with the first South Georgia Football Association crown before an estimated crowd of about 2000.

A day or so ago they found handsome Arthur de Kuh, his sight dimmed and his speech impaired, working on relief in the many Albany touchdown drives and municipal lodging house in New York city. municipal lodging house in New York city

Five years ago he was worth $50,000 in cash and had earned a half-million dollars in the ring. The stock market took the $50,000. Crooked managers ok the $250,000 he should have had. It is a curious story, coming hard on the heels of Charles Francis (Socker) Coe's serial in one of the popular weekly magazines called "Champion." It was a story based on facts. It exposed how unscrupulous managers piled up false expenses which were deducted from the "take" before the split was made with the fighter. "I received mighty little of the hundreds of thousands that were paid to see me and my opponents in the ring," De Kuh was quoted as saying. "One man had me under contract and he'd rent me out to some other manager. They'd take 25 per of cent each of my purse, leaving me 50 per cent. But that was after "expenses" came off the top. I remember one small fight where my purse was $1,600. That sounds like easy money for a little trip out of town. But all I came back with was $110.' De Kuh's story is just one of the many sordid true stories of the prize ring. Gene Tunney's story remains the best one of them all.

He quit with his money. He kept it. They didn't like Gene Tunney. But he sees well, his speech isn't jerky or halting, and he isn't on relief.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(P)—The 1935 college football season, one of the most spectacular of post-war years, has produced an all-American team qualified in nearly every respect to take its place among the most ac-complished in the gridiron hall of fame. . . .

The pick of the country's talent lines up today in mythical formation, answering the eleventh annual Associated Press roll-call and bringing to a climax the collegiate career of many a distinguished athletic son of the old alma mater. old alma mater.

This year's selections, based upon a consensus of expert views and opinions in all parts of the nation, reflect the sensational strides made on southern gridirons, particularly in Texas. The far-flung battleground of Dixie, stretching from the Carolinas to the Lone Star State, shares with the equally copious middle west the distinction of developing a bumper crop of all-America performers in the 1935 campaign. Simultaneously the east and far west, although producing a few fine teams, have lost ground in the all-star scramble.

Taking the all-star squad of 33 as a whole, with little to choose in many instances among players on any of the three teams, the south again is in the lead with 12 performers from three major conferences. The middle west is next with 10, also representing an increase over 1934. The east gains seven places but the far west has to be satisfied with only four, a new "low" for the Pacific coast sector, which had a corner on all-America talent several years ago.

Although no college places more than a single player on this year's first all-America, the individual strength of the country's outstanding teams is reflected in the selections for the complete squad. IDENTITY IS SOUGHT

An unidentified brunet, between 18 and 20 years old, dressed in a black evening gown, was taken to Grady hospital in an unconscious condition last night after a police radio car found a wrecked automobile in Piedmont park.

A man who gave his name as H. T. Mason, of Lakewood Heights, her escort, according to police, refused to divulge her identity. He was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

The young woman, of medium height and described as olive-complexioned, was found in the front seat of the machine, which had struck a tree on a drive north of the lake, near Twelfth street, police said.

New Jersey Governor Determined To "See That Justice Is Done."

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 6.-(AP)-A source close to Governor Harold G. Hoffman disclosed today the Governor is determined to "see that justice is done" in the Lindbergh kidnan-slaving and will delay Bruno Richard Hauptmann's execution if any "plausible" evidence is produced in the condemned man's favor.

The Governor said Ellis H. Parker, noted Burlington county detective, is working on the case and that Parker is "under the definite impression that Hauptmann is not the man. Parker, who is 62 and has had high percentage of successes in icide cases, could not be reached Hauptmann's petition to the supreme court of the United States for a review of his Flemington trial is still pending. It was believed a decision, on whether it will review the case may be handed down Monday. Should it be unfavorable to Hauptmann he still stands a good chance, in view of Hoffman's attitude and unforeseen developments, to escape the chair for some time.

It is easy to understand why now, the countrysides, white men actually cannot penetrate the more remote regions. And why in less remote sections, such as the triangle of Diredward J. Not Ethiopia's Fault.

Certainly, there is nothing blame-worthy about the Ethiopian govern-ment for this rigidity. Doubtless the correspondents, laudably frantic to serve their agencies with truth, must soon be taken for a jaunt, which, though it will move in compass direction of the front, can hardly be per mitted to penetrate even the rearmost reserves of the Ethiopian army. The temper of these black people, fanned into conflagration by headmen and chiefs—new rifles glinting hungrily for targets—is such that it would be impossible to prevent a man being killed—a white man—if he strayed 10 yards into the bush from his strong partial "blue book" of the nation's highest paid bosses.

The figures were drawn from the 1934 reports made by corporations selling securities on stock exchanges spokesmen estimated $25,000,000 selling securities on stock exchanges— including nearly all the big ones— and from the trade commission study made in 1933 through a question wages would be paid to factory employes in December compared with $16,000,000 last December. A 42 per cent gain in employment over the same week in 1934 was reported in a Merchants' and Manufacturers' sociation survey among 51 Toledo con-cerns. The Chamber of Commerce, at Canton, claimed employment there had scaled to 92 per cent of the all-time peak, in 1929. Youngstown anticipated a surve in steel production to 62 per cent of capacity next week. Northern Ohio concerns reckoned they would pay out $4,000,000 in dividends for the holidays.

The Chicago Association of Commerce had statistics in hand indicating Americans had $5,000 000,000 more spending money this year than last and that the nation's merchants had engaged more than 250,000 extra scaled to 92 per cent of the all-time peak, in 1929. Youngstown antici-had engaged more than 250,000 extra hands for the Yuletide rush.

When you are close up on disagreeable subject as a wife is on this one, it is mighty hard to keep your sense of proportions and harder to put into practice what your common sense teaches you. Why does a happy husband drink? Why does he change completely in his attitude toward his wife? What can she do to help matters? What sort of attitude is best for her to assume toward him when he is drinking?

drinking? PHOEBE T.

Answer: The answer to the last question is: A wife must learn by experience what attitude on her part is least irritating to the drink-ing husband.

The husband who is making his wife unhappy by drinking immediately tries to put the blame on her in an effort to get right with himself. Given half a chance, he drags out every little real or fancied wrong she has done him and in his state of inflamed imag-ination her faults and folles are mag-nified a thousand fold. Now let her top" him with angry words, m, reproach him, complain of id it gives him a fine opportu-release all his ugly inhibitions. him and it gives him a fine opportunity to release all his ugly inhibitions. Only a super-woman can hold her tongue when she sees the man she loves unnatural with alcohol, his dignity gone, his eyes blurred, his tongue thick and his wits dulled, his legs thick and his wits dulled, his legs wobbly, his manly strength turned to watery weakness. Yet this is the price of pages.

"optical illusion" on the part of declarer. There are several different manifestations of this failing, but none is more inexplicable than this situation: Declarer sits south, and nity gone, his eyes blurred, his legs with the North hand as dummy is unable to make his contract. But if he moves around the table, picks up the moves around the table, picks up the North hand and South becomes exposed (the difference in the open-

Why does a happy husband drink? Who knows! The scientists will tell you that he is trying to bolster some sense of deficiency and to cure him of his liquor habit that sense of deficiency, mental, moral, physical, must be located and compensated in some other way.

There are just a few things to be done by the wife who carries this cross. The first is to get herself into the frame of mind where she can rethe frame of mind where she can regard herself as being married to a dual personality; enjoy the man whom she took him to be and close her theart and mind to the man who is stranger to her. The second is to study the apparent causes and occasions of his benders and as far as possible remove these causes and occasions. The third is to try to get him to a psychiatrist who will diagnose the weakness. If she can't persuade him to do this, go herself to the doctor and get a second-hand diagnosis. She may not be able to effect a cure with a second-hand diagnosis and treatment but she cill certainly learn a lot that will en-ble her to deal tactfully and patient-y with her husband's weakness. Safe Driving Pledge

In the interest of accident prevention and safer conditions on the highways and in co-operation with the Safety Council of The Atlanta Constitution, I am making the following pledge:

1. To drive at moderate speed and on own side of road.

2. Not to pass cars on curves or hills.

3. To stop at stop signs.

4. Not to jump traffic lights.

5. In city traffic to be particularly watchful for pedestrians stepping into the line of traffic from parked cars.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6.-(4')-Cotton held in a narrow trading range today in quiet dealings, but managed to gain from 3 to 7 points.

Evening-up operations prior to the bureau report on Monday and some trade buying in the distant months were the main features of trading.

While the trade has generally made up its mind to a lower crop estimate on Monday by the government, there was little speculative buying in the market on this development. The untertainty over the loan cotton held by the government cast a pall over bullish operations in the dealings.

bullish operations in the dealings.
Final prices were, in most cases, the best for the day as January finished at 11.74, March at 11.56, May at 11.49 and July at 11.41. October made the best advance, gaining 35 cents a bale to 11.23.

The market was aided during the early hours by better cables from abroad and good reports from cloth markets. Manchester cabled that while business was not as brisk as heretofore, spinners were booked up for several weeks. Worth Street reported good sales of print cloths with no good sales of print doths with no recession in prices.
Other developments were lacking.

The crop is about made in nearly all areas, and the weather no longer influences the yield to any important International Telephone and Postal Bonds Rocket to New Highs.

Daily Bond Averages. Copyright, 1935, Standard Statistics Co.)

By G. A. PHILLIPS. NEW YORK, Dec. 6 .- (A)-The corporate bond market settled down in a quiet trading area today but low priced rails were again in good de mand.

New highs for a year or longer were recorded by several issues in the industrial and utility groups although the main body of bonds in these divisions showed little change from Thursday's finals.

United States governments were extremely quiet and the trend was mixed. Treasury 3 3-4s of 1943 advanced 6-32ds to 105.13, but losses of 1-32d to 2-32ds occurred in several other issues. The turnover amounted to only $310,000, the smallest since the new treasury offer. smallest since the new treasury offerings earlier in the week.

Two issues of International Telephone bonds advanced into new high ground for the recovery movement on reports of increased business in some of the foreign subsidiaries and indica-tions that considerable progress was being made by the various committees who have been working on a reorgan-ization plan for the Postal Telegraph Company, a domestic subsidiary. Bonds of the latter company also were in demand.

numbers could dream without ever dreaming of a policeman.

Consequently 590 has been getting a liberal play for many weeks. It finally fell Thursday. Lottery operators were forced to call on their reserve supply of funds to meet the payoff, which was reported to be in excess of $25,000. One negro alone won $1,100.

But the lottery operators didn't fare so badly. They have been collecting heavily on 590 for more than a year. Thursday was the first time any combination of the three numbers fell in nearly two years.

The negro patrons are looking forward to their future dreams.

OIL EXPORTS OF U.S.

Shipments in October Exceed Those of September by 250,000 Barrels.

washington, Dec. 6.—(47)—
The government reported today that crude oil exports to Italy jumped if off 2,000 barrels in September to 417,000 barrels in September to 417,000 barrels in October. These Bureat of Mines figures showed, however, that no gasoline was shipped from the United States to Italy in either month.

September was the last full month prior to Preside.t Roosevelt's arms embargo proclamation and announcement that those shipping to Italy or Ethiopia did so at their own risk. The government's policy has been defined officially as intended to discourage abnormal commerce with belligerents, while not interfering with a normal peace-time level of trade.

STOCK OPINION.

FENNER & BEANE—The market's action suggest that several uncertainties are standing in the way of constructive action. Among these may be included the European war threat, the possibility of France abandoning the gold and future legislative program of congress.

The DEBUNKER

The so-called Venus de Milo ha been called "a perfect type of femin-ine form," but modern art critics are not all of this opinion. They point out that she is neither a physical nor mental standard for beauty. They say that "her narrow chest indicates weak lungs, that the shoulders are not wellbraced, that the cranium and face show no signs of mental vigor, that her limbs show want of muscular training" and that she does not show any of the characteristics regarded as essential in a woman who would be come a mother and mistress of a home. Maybe she pleased the people of her day; but not those of this age! (Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

JUST NUTS

"That is so."

They walked on. Again they were silent, and Prince Timur said:

"The bitter, black grief of it."

"And all for the sake of a childhood quarrel..."

"A footling quarrel—which was my fault..."

"Perhaps both our fault...?"

"Perhaps..."

They sighed. They thought of the past as it had been and as it might have been; thought of the fate in estore for their sons. And yet—what could they do? They were loyal men. There was their duty to the grand kah and to Samarkand.

They reached the western gate swhere servants waited with horses. They mounted and were off.

They were not followed by clattering troopers in pomp and panoply of war. Instead, they picked up a few time here, a few there; no more than 200; but taught, tried old sergeants and captains and all familiar with the steppe. And as, some time earlier, the bandits had surprised the Grand Kahn's soldiers, now they were surprised in their turn—with, suddenly, on an afternoon, a blast of hot wind jumping up on the feathery skylinc—a mass of purple nimbus, slashed by the thin, wavery, gray line of mist cloud, rolling down and gathering momentum; a humming and zumming that steadily grew to a roar; then a sharp flash of lance points and sword blades—the rhythmic tattoo of galloping horses—a short flight—and vices to the form of the world, who stops that steadily grew to a roar; then a sharp flash of lance points and sword blades—the rhythmic tattoo of galloping horses—a short flight—and vices to the single man, sharp flash of lance points and sword blades—the rhythmic tattoo of galloping horses—a short flight—and vices to the single man sharp flash of lance points and sword blades—the rhythmic tattoo of galloping horses—a short flight—and vices to the single man sharp flash of lance points and sword blades—the rhythmic tattoo of galloping horses—a short flight—and vices to the single man sharp flash of lance points and sword blades—the rhythmic tattoo of galloping horses—a short flight—and vices to the single man sharp flash of lance points and sword b Ali. WHAT A GIRL KAY BRANNAN TURNED OUT TO BE!

Thoroughly fascinating from start to finish is this story of a girl who was horrified at the prospect of living in a small town all her life. What was the market for her youth, her beauty, her innocence in the big city?

Ben Ames Williams as the author, and James Montgomery Flagg as artist-illustrator, combine to make this as intriguing a serial story as you've ever read.

As the fugitives plunged into the jungle, fortune favored them, for now their pursuers halted. No Bagalla would venture into the night forest, alive with demons. So, the Bagallas stood, shouting threats and insults at the runaways, who stumbled along a crooked trail.

Presently Galla Galla, the chief, led his people back into the village and closed the gates. "Tomorrow," he said, "when the first light comes, we will go forth and bring them back. They will not go go forth and bring them back. They for the far tonight where lions hunt and panthers lie in

The pygmy Ukundo, master of jungle craft, led the little party by ways that no other might have found. An uncanny instinct seemed to guide him where, by crawling on all fours, a way might be found through what appeared an impenetrable mass of tangled vegetation.

CHEST DISCUSSES RELIEF PROBLEMS

Heads of Organizations Consider Issues Arising From Dole Abolition.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 6.-(A)-Leadlief.

The meetings were executive, under leadership of Stillman F. Westbrook, Hartford, Conn., president of the Community Chests and Councils, Inc., of New York.

Reporting that 417 local Community Chests are affiliated with the organizations, Allen T. Burns, New York, executive secretary, said 5,000,000 donors contribute "about $75,000,000 annually." He called it "remarkable that while income tax returns show a decline of 53 per cent in donations to charities during the depression, Community Chests have so won the confidence of the public and have attained such stability that donations to the Chests dropped only 10 per cent in two of the six depression to the Chests dropped only 10 per cent in two of the six depression of the Interior Maximiliano and Naminian of the Chests dropped only 10 per cent in two of the six depression. nations to the Chests dropped only 10 per cent in two of the six depression years. In the last year the collections held their own and for the coming year they showed a 4 per cent increase."

1936 as the date for elections, Secretary of the Interior Maximiliano A. Smith announced late today. Dr. Dodd, president of Princeton University, was called to Havana after elections set for this month.
